2. Plimmerton Open Mic Comes to Acoustic Routes, Roseneath School Hall, Thursday 23 August, 730 pm

The amazing Captain, Roy Mc Guinness has steered the ship at the Plimmerton open mic so ably for the last four to five years. This wonderful monthly event now regularly attracts around 80 people. Wall-to-wall music from a large number of very fine, musicians, singers and performers. We thought that it was about time that Plimmerton Open Mic put on a concert for us at Roseneath. It is entirely in Roy's capable hands to present what is bound to be an amazing night's entertainment - not to be missed.

Ticket price: $15 (non-members) and $10 (members)

3. President Murray's Musings

Hi Folkies

This is my final Musings as Acoustic Routes President for the 2017-2018 year. Your club will be holding it's AGM in the upstairs room of the Sprig and Fern starting at 2pm Sunday the 19th of August. This will be an opportunity for you to elect a new committee and office holders - maybe offer yourself in one of these roles and have a say about what you would like from the club. It would be lovely to have your support with this. If you want to have me, I am happy to stand again as President.

This last month has seen an amazing range and amount of music presented within and outside our club, from our musical community.

In mid-July. I attended an afternoon and night of the Holler at Tatum Park. A lovely, friendly, well-run event with some awe-inspiring music. Thanks very much Tony and Karen.

I also made it to one of the Sunday open mics on Sunday at the Office bar, this one run by Vivien. A really nice group of very talented local musical artists, presented their songs. A lovely event, which included an unexpected but delightful appearance, from our Auckland based folkie, Mike McGuire. Thanks so much Vivien.

Also at the Office, Pat Higgins presented, as an Acoustic Routes activity, an inspiring Alternative Guitar Tunings workshop. I can't wait to get into the things he showed us, maybe when I've finished writing out Acoustic Routes memos?

I was fortunate enough to be invited to a book launch by one of our folkie community, Don Franks.

We were well entertained by musicians from his Aro Valley Community.

Congratulations Don.

The same evening, I attended one Annie and Roy's "Close Up and Personal" concerts. This was a double bill with Caboodle, Diana and Julian, giving us the very beautiful first half performance that we have come to expect from them.

The PJs - Pam and my little sister Jenny - gave an extremely classy and varied performance. Big congratulations to all four of the performers and a big thank you to Roy and Annie for presenting yet another wonderful concert.

As a follow up from Don's Book Launch, I was invited to record a half hour of Kiwi songs for Don's weekly Radio Access program, which I have done. You can listen to Don's podcasts from the Radio Access website.

I know that monthly the open mics that Kevin is running on our behalf, upstairs at The Office, are well attended and offer an opportunity for lots of very good performers, to strut their stuff. Thanks so much for your tireless and valuable efforts Kevin.

Roy's monthly Open Mic, run in association with Acoustic Routes, continues to attract a capacity crowd, of very high-quality performers. Thanks very much once again Roy.

Our Acoustic Routes August concert, will be organised and presented by Roy and will be made up from people who perform regularly at the Plimmerton Open Mic. I believe that at this concert, our J. A. Pan Memorial Trophy winner and general everywhere, sound man, Dominic, will be given an opportunity to perform, as is required, if you hold the trophy.

Last Thursday The Victoria University Folk Club took on the responsibility of presenting our monthly concert. I had expected great things, but I wasn't prepared for the incredible display of talent and musicianship that they presented. When we have such wonderful talent on our doorstep, I wonder why we ever bother with touring artists.

The Friday after our club concert, I attended a very friendly monthly open mic at St Peter's Hall in Paekakariki, run by local folkie Tony Fuel. A really lovely evening, thanks Tony.

Mainly Acoustic's July concert, was a really engaging, Come All Ye which featured a number of artists presenting two or three songs each. I thoroughly enjoyed the evening.

I would like to thank our very hard-working committee for their efforts throughout the year. Also John Burnell for managing our electronic communications. Janette for stepping into the breach so often. Dom for managing the sound so ably. Philippa for producing such a wonderful Balladeer for my loose jottings each month. Finally, each and every one of you for continuing to support Acoustic Routes.

A very busy month - see you at our AGM.

Cheers

Murray Kilpatrick.

Campaign Statement

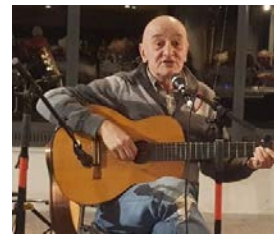

When I became President of Acoustic Routes, I signaled that I wanted to make changes to how our club runs. These are my own opinions and ideas and don't represent the views of the committee or anybody else. However, I was asked by a committee member to post these and with the AGM coming very soon, I felt that it was appropriate for me to do so, to promote further thought and discussion. I would welcome feedback. musicianmurray@gmail.com

1. First and foremost, I would like to build up community ownership of the club. I believe that this community is made up from people who like to play, sing, perform, and interact. I feel that we need to provide many more opportunities for each and every one of you to perform and interact musically and socially in a variety of different ways that meet your needs.
2. In my view, the club should aim to operate at least once a week, maybe even more frequently. It should offer a wide variety of activities that include, but are not restricted to, concerts, sing arounds, open mics, workshops, interest groups, jam sessions, dances, lessons, discussions, fun, ... To do this, I think we need a different venue, one that offers us greater space, time, location and financial flexibility.
3. The Club should involve a much wider age group, particularly a much younger club community. Young people can lead the way and provide succession for our club to future generations.

4. I would like Acoustic routes to be seen as the centre, a sort of umbrella under which different interest and activity groups within our folkie scene can freely interact and run the sort of events that they want, within or outside the main committee. I also think we should form closer links with all other musical and performance organisations.
5. Acoustic Routes needs a strong committee and group of helpers outside the committee to run a larger number of activities. The club needs your ideas, help and involvement.

4. Open Mic, Plimmerton Boating Club, 66 Moana Road, Plimmerton, Thursday 9 August, 7 pm

7. The 2018 Joan Prior Young Performers Award

The Joan Prior Young Performers Award, which Acoustic Routes initiated in 2014, is back again after a year's break.

Joan was an inspiration to generations of singers, musicians and dancers around Wellington from the late 1950s. Originally from northern England, she was dubbed 'The Johnsonville Songthrush', and had a huge repertoire of mainly British folksong. After she died in 2010 her family donated her collection of instruments, recordings and memorabilia to Acoustic Routes, and this enabled us to set up the award in her name.

The award is open to solo or duo performers aged 15-25 years on 30 September 2018 and resident in the Wellington area, with a prize of $500.

It is a fully integrated part of the Wellington Folk Festival. There will be a single concert at the festival where entrants will perform before a panel of judges who will select the winner. Full details, with conditions and entry form, will be posted on the Acoustic Routes website www.acousticroutes.org.nz. Also check wellingtonfolkfestival.org.nz and Facebook pages. Applications close Friday 30 September.

Please note: normal festival entry costs will apply. Either a full weekend or relevant day pass will need to be purchased by entrants and anyone else attending.*

8. Review, Pat Higgins alternative guitar tunings workshop, 22 July

Pat Higgins very generously offered this workshop and I decided to attend, along with a comfortable-sized group of other aspiring guitarists.

Pat had decided that, in the interests of preserving the remainder of the world's forests, this workshop would be paperless. He kindly emailed his teaching notes not only to attendees, but to anybody we had contacted in promoting the workshop.

Pat introduced us to four alternative tunings and I was amazed by his knowledge. Rather than give us a series of chords, for each tuning he explained what kinds of music each could be used for and gave us some very sound advice on ways that we could explore the tunings for ourselves.

I came away thoroughly inspired to have a go, build up my own knowledge and play tunes for a start, using at least one tuning. I am sure we all felt similarly. Pat was humble and dedicated to helping each of us explore this strange world. His knowledge, willingness and ability to assist everyone was wonderful.

Thank you so much, Pat. You are a wonderful, generous and dedicated musician guitarist, teacher and person. This was one of the best interactive workshops I have every attended - an inspiration.

Cheers, Murray Kilpatrick

9. Review, VicFolk at Acoustic Routes, 26 July

What a great night we had!

Acoustic Routes had invited the Victoria University Folk Club to do the July concert, with a free rein to fill the bill in whatever way it chose. What the VicFolk folks gave us was a showcase of their music and talents that demonstrated why they have become a refreshing new force on the local Celtic music scene.

VicFolk emerged only last year, drawing its members from both staff and students at the university. Fiddler James McNamara, one of its creators, brought to the club his experience of leading the Cambridge University ceillidh band during his time studying there. Its first outing was a St Patrick's Day ceillidh in the Aro Valley Community Centre and since then it's barely paused to draw breath, hosting regular dances as well as music sessions.

And VicFolk gave the audience at this concert little chance to draw breath either, with a full-on programme of tunes and songs that had us beating the feet and reeling and jigging in our seats.

There were eight performers in the line-up, which featured fiddles, pipes, accordion and recorder, as well as singers. The full band began and finished each half of the programme, pumping out the energy with sets of reels, jigs, polkas and hornpipes. In between, we were entertained by combinations of duets and solos that mixed and matched the multiple talents on display.

So, we heard piper, Kris Nielsen swap the uilleann pipes for the Scottish small pipes in a solo set that started with a slow air. Kris, on small pipes and low whistle, teamed up with fiddler Emily Griffiths for two sets. Emily, a very busy bee that night, also joined forces with accordionist Jonathan Berkahn, for a couple of items, and with James McNamara for a sizzling set of polkas. James also joined fellow fiddler Gillian Gillies for a set of reels and did a solo piece as well. He teamed up with the hard-working Jonathan on another couple of sets, including some Scandinavian polkas composed by Jonathan.

And, the cream on the cake - the songs. Cynthia Wratt gave us "Red Is The Rose", Emily sang "She Moved Through The Fair" and Francesca Moore, "The Skye Boat Song", all sung with real feeling and backed by Jonathan, the grand master of accompaniment. Then Emily topped it all with an absolutely belting version of "Byker Hill".

The band pulled out "Star of the County Down" as an encore and a final set of jigs to send us home bouncing.

Kevin Ikin

P.S. If you want some more of VicFolk, their next ceilidh is on Saturday, August 4th, from 7 pm at Thistle Hall. Take your dancing shoes. Check out their website, here: www.vicfolkmusic.wordpress.com
